

Eddie Sundquist

U.S. CONGRESS

Meet Eddie: Eddie is a proud graduate of Jamestown High School having graduated class of 2007. He went on to pursue a political science degree at St. John Fisher College. The first in his family to graduate from college, Eddie earned his Bachelors of Arts degree and his Masters degree. Eager to do his part to help others, Eddie moved to Philadelphia, where he taught middle school science to students overlooked by the traditional education system. As an educator, he found that the only way to make a real change in society is to roll up your sleeves and get to work. Eddie became passionate about changing the life trajectory of kids, but he was determined to find a way to make a difference in society as well.

Determined to come back home and continue fighting for others, Eddie returned to Western New York in 2012 when he enrolled in the University at Buffalo School of Law Program.

While at UB Law School, Eddie was an advocate for children and families, working with the Buffalo community to develop alternatives to school suspension and discipline programs. He has an expansive background in legal studies, having worked with the U.S. Treasury Department and U.S. Attorney's Office, and clerked for an administrative law judge at the New York State Division of Human Rights.
